

One of the reasons the FCC exists is to help ensure that a single media conglomerate cannot exert undue power over the public. I believe it goes without saying that airing an hour-long, scurrulous attack ad in the thin guise of a documentary just two weeks before a critical presidential election more than qualifies.

Please step up and serve the public interest. Either level the playing field (by forcing Sinclair to also air a pro-Kerry or anti-Bush equivalent) or keep them from spreading one-sided propaganda over our public airwaves.
